

Valpak, a leading provider of environmental solutions, has launched a number of free Environmental Training Seminars for UK businesses. These seminars are designed to keep businesses up-to-date with ever changing environmental legislation and industry developments as well as providing an excellent opportunity for businesses to network and share their experiences.

The seminars are free of charge, open to any UK business and will run throughout 2013 covering a variety of areas, including:

- Legal compliance
- Cost savings/reduction
- Improving environmental performance

Duncan Simpson, Director of Sales and Marketing, commented:

“In today’s environment organisations are finding that they are challenged with meeting increasingly demanding sustainability and CSR targets. Setting the right objectives and implementing efficient and simple strategies to meet these objectives has never been more important. We recognise that sometimes it’s difficult to find time and resource to keep up-to-date with environmental legislation and industry developments. With this in mind we’re running a whole host of free Environmental Training Seminars throughout 2013.”

He added:

“If businesses want peace of mind that they’re fully compliant, our Environmental Training Seminars are designed to keep them up-to-date with ever changing environmental legislation and industry developments. If the focus is to reduce costs in 2013 we’ve got seminars covering effective energy management and waste management. Or if their goal is to improve their environmental performance/reputation we’re running seminars on implementing an environmental management system e.g. ISO 14001.”