

WASTE management company Orchard Environmental has announced three new appointments as it continues to expand its operations across the North of England.

Dalbinder Ram and Chris Procter both have extensive experience in the waste and environmental sector and will work on business development for the Elland firm. Darren Isherwood joins the sales team.

Justin Holley, of Orchard Environmental, said the appointments would support the firm's growth strategy, which will see it offering its one-stop waste management services to new sectors, including clinical, general waste and recycling clients and promoting its specialist services which include confidential waste, compacting, oil installation inspection and interceptor maintenance.
