

Jacqueline O'Donovan, Managing Director of O'Donovan Waste Disposal, has been invited to join a prestigious line-up on the judging panel of the Growing Business Awards 2020. Jacqueline was chosen as the recipient of the Entrepreneur of the Year at last year's awards, as a prominent businesswoman in the waste, construction and logistics sectors.

Since 1998, the Growing Business Awards have been bringing together and honouring some of the UK's most outstanding entrepreneurs and high-growth businesses. Consistent high-quality of nominees, numerous categories and a finely-honed judging process have ensured the Growing Business Awards have made a name for themselves as a leading judge of past, current and future entrepreneurial success.

Successful finalists will be asked to attend a judging day on Friday 18th September, at the JW Marriott Grosvenor House Hotel where they will meet with a panel of judges. The judges will then decide on a winner who will be announced at the awards ceremony on 25th November.

Jacqueline O'Donovan commented 'I am honoured to be involved in the judging panel for this year's awards. I look forward to bringing something new to the table through my industry experience and sharing my knowledge with the judging committee.'

Amber Ward, Event Director of the Growing Business Awards said "The Awards are now in their 22nd year and remain one of the most respected accolades in business because they are judged by a panel of independent industry experts. We thank Jacqueline for giving us her time and bringing her significant expertise and knowledge to the judging process."

For further information visit www.odonovan.co.uk